ABOUT COVID-19 AND THE GLOBAL PANDEMIC

COVID-19 is an infectious disease caused by a coronavirus which was discovered in December 2019 and has spread rapidly around the globe. Common symptoms include fever, cough, fatigue, shortness of breath, and loss of smell and taste. While most cases in healthy children and adults are mild, infection can be fatal especially in older adults and people with some chronic health conditions. The services available to people experiencing homelessness have changed dramatically since COVID-19 infections first began in Arizona. Many programs are offering reduced services and/or are providing services by phone or through the internet to prevent the spread of the illness.

HOW IS COVID-19 SPREAD?

The virus is thought to spread mainly from person-to-person between people who are in close contact (within 6 feet) with one another through respiratory droplets produced when an infected person coughs or sneezes. People are thought to be most contagious when they are most symptomatic (the sickest) but some spread might be possible before people show symptoms.

It may also be possible that a person can get COVID-19 by touching a surface or object that has the virus on it and then touching their own mouth, nose, or possibly their eyes, but this is not thought to be the main way the virus spreads.

PROTECT YOURSELF

There are several steps you can take to protect yourself and others.

- Clean your hands often, either with soap and water for 20 seconds or a hand sanitizer that contains at least 60% alcohol.
- Avoid close contact with people who are sick.
- Put distance between yourself and other people (at least 6 feet).
- Cover your mouth and nose with a cloth face cover when around others.
- Cover your cough or sneeze with a tissue, then throw the tissue in the trash.
- Seek medical care if you notice you have a fever, cough, difficulty breathing, diarrhea, or fatigue.
- Avoid crowded places, public transit, and stores whenever possible.

QUESTIONS ABOUT COVID-19?

Call 211 Arizona by dialing 211 from any Arizona telephone to speak to someone about COVID-19 symptoms, services, and referrals. Find online resources at www.211arizona.org.

Check out the Safe at Camp section of this guide for more helpful tips to stay safe and healthy during the pandemic.

STAYING HEALTHY

We all have a responsibility to protect ourselves and others from COVID-19 and other infectious diseases. Use the tips on the previous page to protect yourself and those around you from COVID-19. You should also pay close attention to your own health and watch for symptoms. Here's a simple daily checklist of symptoms for you to think about.

- ✓ Do I have a fever or feel feverish?
- ✓ Am I feeling chills?
- ✓ Do I have a sore throat or cough (different than usual)?
- ✓ Is it difficult to breathe?
- ✓ Do I have stomach pain or diarrhea (different than usual)?
- ✓ Am I feeling especially tired or having difficulty moving (different than usual)?
- ✓ Am I feeling severe or constant lightheadedness?
- ✓ Do I feel disoriented or confused?
- ✓ Have I lost my sense of smell or taste?

If you notice any new or unusual symptoms, contact one of the health services in the next section for screening and possible testing.

HEALTH SERVICES WHEN YOU NEED THEM

Even if we do our best to protect ourselves from COVID-19, we might get sick. If you have one or more of the symptoms above, contact your health provider immediately for screening. They may ask you to go to an emergency room or to schedule a telehealth (phone/video) visit. Remember, COVID-19 is serious but most people have only mild symptoms. There's no need to panic but it's important that you get the medical care you need quickly even if you don't feel that sick. By getting medical care, you protect yourself and people around you.

SAFE AT CAMP

If you are sleeping outside during the pandemic, there are things you can do to lower the risk of COVID-19 infection for yourself and the people you camp with. Here are a few important tips.

- Try to camp near a public handwashing station or restroom so you can use the restroom and wash your hands regularly.
- Keep tents or other sleeping areas at least 10 feet apart.
- It's always safest not to camp alone but limit the number of people in your camp. Try to keep your camp to five people or less.
- Hang out with as few people as possible. Try to spend time only with the same five or less people you are camping with.
- Wear a face covering when you're around others and stay 6 feet apart.
- Keep in touch with an outreach worker to get supplies and let them know where you are. Making sure an outreach worker knows where you're camping makes it easier to locate you if housing becomes available.
- Keep sidewalks clear and dispose of trash to avoid problems in the neighborhood or with law enforcement.
- If you think you might be sick, avoid contact with anyone (even the people you're camping with). Call El Rio Community Health Centers at (520) 670-3909 or the VA at (520) 792-1450 (if you're a veteran). If you are experiencing severe symptoms, call 911.

IF YOU TEST POSITIVE FOR COVID-19

The City will provide you a place to stay while you get better. This may be at a shelter, hotel, or other facility staffed by a community agency.

While there, you will need to stay inside and not go out. The staff will provide you with meals, clothes, medicine, and anything else you need to stay healthy.

TIP: New shelter programs are available for people who are at high risk of medical complications related to COVID-19. If you are pregnant, over age 60, or have a chronic health condition, call a Coordinated Entry location or Outreach team to find out if you're eligible.

OUTBREAKS CAN BE STRESSFUL

The pandemic is taking its toll on all of us. You might be experiencing new challenges coping with life in a pandemic. People who struggle with depression or other mental illness may have an especially hard time during the pandemic. Fear and anxiety about a disease can be overwhelming and cause strong emotions in adults and children.

Coping with stress will make you, the people you care about, and your community stronger.

Stress during an infectious disease outbreak can include:

- Fear and worry about your own health and the health of your loved ones
- Changes in sleep or eating patterns
- Difficulty sleeping or concentrating
- Worsening of chronic health problems
- Worsening of mental health conditions
- Increased use of alcohol, tobacco, or other drugs

Everyone reacts differently to stressful situations.

How you respond to the outbreak can depend on your background, the things that make you different from other people, and the community you live in.

People who may respond more strongly to the stress of a crisis include:

- Older people and people with chronic diseases who are at higher risk for severe illness from COVID-19
- Children and teens
- People who are helping with the response to COVID-19, like doctors, other health care providers, and first responders
- People who have mental health conditions including problems with substance use

Take care of your mental health.

Call your healthcare provider if stress gets in the way of your daily activities for several days in a row.

People with preexisting mental health conditions should continue with their treatment and be aware of new or worsening symptoms.

The street outreach teams listed below can also conduct screening for shelter if you are high risk or have symptoms associated with COVID-19. If you need support, give an outreach team a call.

COORDINATED ENTRY (HOUSING ASSESSMENT)

Coordinated Entry is the system our community uses to help people experiencing homelessness obtain stable housing. During the Coordinated Entry housing assessment, a community navigator or intake worker will ask questions to understand your situation and work with you to identify available housing resources. The worker will refer you to emergency shelter if you are eligible and may complete a VI-SPDAT, the assessment used to place you on a list for referral to longer-term housing services. Because of COVID-19, many locations are offering Coordinated Entry housing assessments by phone only.

WHAT TO EXPECT WHEN COMPLETING A HOUSING ASSESSMENT BY PHONE

- 1) You may be asked to make an appointment for an assessor to call you back or forwarded to their voicemail. Try calling another location or leave a voicemail with your information so that they can call you back.
- 2) You will be read a release of information that you would normally sign in person. You will be asked to give verbal consent over the phone.
- 3) You will be asked to complete a brief health screening to assess eligibility and need for isolation shelter as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic.
- 4) The housing assessment process will take approximately 30 minutes.

DAY CENTERS

Visiting a day center is a great way to get out of the heat and connect to resources. Because of COVID-19, many day centers are operating differently than usual right now. Day centers may have reduced hours, may be limiting the number of people who can enter the building at any given time, and/or may only be providing services outdoors.
