PRIMAVERA JOINS NATIONAL EQUAL VOICE CAMPAIGN

As our nation continues to struggle with a protracted economic crisis—a crisis that puts an added burden on low-income families—it is more urgent than ever to amplify the voices of the families who seek Primavera’s continuum of services. Their voices must be heard by those in a position to bring about the changes that will truly impact their lives.

Primavera is excited and honored to join the Marguerite Casey Foundation’s national Equal Voice Campaign dedicated to creating a movement of working families across the United States who advocate on their own behalf for a more just and equitable society for all. With the support of a three-year grant from the Marguerite Casey Foundation, Primavera will strengthen the capacity of low-income families and individuals to become civically engaged, informed, and empowered to advocate for economic and social justice.

Joy Wilcox, Primavera’s Director of Community Engagement, will be working with low-income families through Primavera programs, neighborhoods, and partner organizations to meet the following objectives:

- To become active community leaders with enhanced leadership skills and knowledge of policy issues that affect them;

- To become active in community service projects, educational events, action research and advocacy campaigns in public transportation and community and economic development; and

- To implement state-level advocacy campaigns to reform criminal justice sentencing policies, increase funding in support of re-entry programs for the formerly incarcerated, and eliminate predatory consumer lending.

The Marguerite Casey Foundation, a private, independent grant-making organization, believes that a movement of working families can effect change in local, state, and national public policy to create a just and equitable society. To that end, the Foundation launched a nationwide information gathering process in 2007 to identify the issues that mattered most to low-income families. Over the course of a year, over 30,000 families participated in 65 town hall meetings. Overwhelmingly, participants expressed frustration that decisions were being made “about them, without them,” and maintained that they could change their own lives. From these “listening circles,” the Foundation launched the Equal Voice National Family Platform, a framework for a national movement building strategy to fund organizations that work with communities and families whose voices historically have been ignored. “The most important thing is that we believe that families have the capacity, have the understanding of their issues, and can find solutions to their problems,” says Luz Vega-Marquis, President and CEO of the Marguerite Casey Foundation.

As a grassroots community building and development organization, Primavera has a long history of working with program participants, individuals and families to support, educate, and empower families to advocate for their own interests. With the support of the Marguerite Casey Foundation grant, Primavera will partner with the Southwest Center for Economic Integrity and other neighborhood and community organizations throughout southern Arizona to strengthen and mobilize hard-working, low-income families across our state.

Marguerite Casey’s Vega-Marquis says, “We’re building the road together - we invite you to walk with us. To me, that is the image. You bring lots of different people to this road, to make this road better for families.” Primavera is extremely grateful to join the Marguerite Casey Foundation and the Equal Voices Campaign in this tremendous opportunity “to build the road by walking.”
SUCCESS STORIES

DETERMINED FORMER PROGRAM PARTICIPANT NOW WORKS FOR PRIMAVERA

“I used to tell people I would smoke till the wheels come off.” Former Primavera program participant and current Primavera employee Claudia Henderson never expected to have a life not defined and controlled by her addiction to crack cocaine. A tribute to her mental changes she is making in her life, “I was living on streets, living in cars, living in people’s carparks. I didn’t have any structure or focus.”

In a moment of epiphany, Claudia realized in 2008 that hearing how proud her friends and family are of her inspires her to work even harder – and she plans to continue to build a good life for herself and to help other people along the way.

To help her get back on her feet and into the workforce, Claudia took the initiative and signed up with Primavera Works and was eventually hired to provide janitorial services at Primavera Foundation’s offices. In July 2010, she moved into her own apartment in Primavera’s Winstel housing complex. Needless to say, Claudia knows almost everyone at Primavera. Many staff have expressed how much they appreciate Claudia and her outstanding work ethic and kind spirit that she brings to the office each day.

Claudia is happy to be part of the Primavera and greater local community and is proud of the monumental changes she is making in her life, “I was living on streets, living in cars, living in people’s carparks. I didn’t have any structure or focus.”

She is also reaching out to others in need, telling them about Primavera and its programs and how Primavera can help them turn their lives around.

Claudia’s next goal is to further her education, perhaps returning to school to study care-giving or social work - something that would allow her to help more people. She explains: “It makes me feel good when I can help somebody else.” Claudia also says that seeing how proud her friends and family are of her inspires her to work even harder – and she plans to continue to build a good life for herself and to help other people along the way.

I’ve been out and clean and sober. And, I’m off parole, off everything. I’m gonna get my life together.” Remembering where she once was and contrasting that with where she is now, she admits, “It’s overwhelming, I’m emotional now. I’m feeling stuff because I’m not numb and zoned out anymore. It’s been a real experience to face things head on with my eyes wide open.”

“Now I’m trying to do all I can to better myself. This is the first time I’ve ever had a driver’s license. I have a bank account and savings. Things I never thought I’d have.”

Thanks to a generous donation from Arizona Lions Past District Governor’s Association and Fry’s Signature store on Rita Ranch and Houghton roads, no one in Primavera’s many programs is going to go thirsty. John Hart (L) and Dick Guilmette (R), both members of the Tucson Downtown Lions Club, were on site when 300 cases of water were delivered to Primavera by Fry’s. The water will be used by the participants in our programs, including our Works program, HIP (our drop-in center), Casa Paloma (our women’s drop-in site), and our Men’s Emergency Shelter.

Habitat for Humanity hired Primavera Works to finish a large-scale landscaping project in the washes of the Coronado De Pueblos housing development. This job offered an unusual opportunity for our participants. In addition to moving a considerable amount of stone and decomposed granite (154 tons of it, to be exact), our participants were given creative license to design and form a variety of rock patterns, including: rabbits, quail, turtles, the Arizona state flag and the Primavera squash blossom. Expressing themselves through the creation of something beautiful was a tremendous self-esteem boost for the participants. “It was a very unique, fun and rewarding experience for me and my crew and a great way for them to exercise their creativity,” said Patrick Hughes, one of the crew leads for Primavera Works.

Arizona State Representative Cecil Ash and a group of his fellow Representatives recently toured Primavera’s programs facilities. Rep. Ash has referred to Primavera as an “exceptional organization” that is “unique in how it addresses root issues as well as immediate needs of desperate people stuck in bad situations.” He said that “Primavera has gained the respect of the community for its holistic approach of helping restore an individual’s self-sufficiency and accountability while assisting with immediate survival needs.” This tour was an important first step in the dialogue with our elected state officials on ways we can partner to end homelessness and poverty in our community. Pictured from left to right are Rep. Vic Williams, District 29 Republican Party Chairman James Kelly, Rep. Steve Court, Rep. Cecil Ash, Rep. Peggy Judd, Rep. Tom Chabin, Rep. Steve Farley, Primavera’s CEO Peggy Hutchison and Primavera’s Director of Community Engagement Joy Wilcox.

Gina Padilla, Employment Specialist for Primavera’s Vocation for Veterans program, presents program graduate Glenn Brown with a U.S. flag that was recently flown over the U.S. Capitol. Formerly homeless and unemployed, Glenn is now living in a rental apartment and is gainfully employed. U.S. Congressman Raul Grijalva presented Primavera with two such flags in recognition of Primavera’s successful and ongoing work with veterans in our community.

Apprentice chef Dee Dee McCabe and Kari Shon watch as Luis Ortiz pulls bread from the700° wood-fired oven at the Primavera Cooks! fundraiser dinner at Tavolino. This year, our 10th Primavera Cooks! season, fifty community members cooked for their families and friends at nine Tucson Original restaurants. Call David at 623-5111 x101 if you are interested in signing up for next season.

Primavera serves homeless veterans through its Vacation for Veterans and Project Action for Veterans programs. These programs provide local veterans with the skills, training and resources to secure housing and employment. For the past seven years, Primavera has also participated with various community and government agencies in Tucson’s bi-annual Stand Down to honor and provide hospitality and services to homeless veterans. This event connects chronically homeless veterans to local service providers offering food, clothing, showers, haircuts, health screenings, medical care, legal assistance, housing options, and employment support services. Assistance with identification documents, food stamps and VA and Social Security benefits are also available at the Stand Down. During the three-day event, veterans receive free motel lodging for two nights and experience much-needed respite from living on the streets. Pictured above from left to right at the September 2011 Stand Down are Mike Espinoza, State Director; Scott Settineri, Property Manager for Primavera’s Catalina Transitional Housing program; and Rick Sumner, Program Manager for Primavera’s Vacation for Veterans program.

The Dean of Women and Mission Integration of San Miguel High School, Sister Odessa Stanford (R), visited student intern, Ashley Vojcich (L) at the Primavera offices in October. Ashley is participating in San Miguel’s Corporate Internship Program which provides local business internships to Primavera’s students and gives students experience working in a professional setting. Primavera has been fortunate to host interns from this program during the last three years.
INVESTING IN PRIMAVERA

THE JOHN M. SIMPSON FOUNDATION MATCHING GIFT IS A HUGE SUCCESS

During the 2011 Primavera Cooks! Season, long-time donor The John M. Simpson Foundation offered to match donations from diners, raffle ticket sales, and new sponsorships/underwriting gifts on a dollar-for-dollar basis up to $20,000. Primavera is thrilled to report that our generous donors have already given more than $17,000 towards this matching gift. And it’s not too late to help us meet the $20,000 goal. Susan Cavender, daughter of John M. Simpson and a Director of the John M. Simpson Foundation, is extending the match through the end of the year. To double your impact, please write “match” on your next donation to Primavera.

Q: How long have you been a donor to Primavera, Susan?
A: Twenty years. Primavera is one of the only non-profits that we’ve stuck with all of these years. In fact, we raised our three sons going to the Men’s Shelter every year to volunteer. You can’t put a price on that.

Q: Why do you give to Primavera?
A: We give to Primavera because it takes a community situation where people are homeless and jobless and helps make those people feel empowered and better about their lives. Primavera helps make them productive and improves their lives. It helps people pull themselves up by their bootstraps and get back on the road again. That’s huge, I think. Primavera is a professionally run non-profit. Primavera does excellent work and it’s always growing and expanding its services to help more people.

Q: Are you willing to do a matching gift again next year?
A: Yes, absolutely YES! In fact, The John M. Simpson Foundation will match donations from diners, raffle ticket sales, and new sponsorships/underwriting gifts on a dollar-for-dollar basis up to $30,000 next year. We are very appreciative of the hard work that Primavera has put into creating this match program, and we are thrilled with the results this year. We hope donors will continue to support Primavera and reach the match.
